GOP set to make Clinton video public

WASHINGTON — The House is poised to make the videotaped grand jury testimony of President Clinton public today despite complaints from Democrats that Republicans are out to further humiliate the president.

More on A-2 Clinton urges public to move beyond scandal. Clinton's grand jury testimony is expected to be made public soon, said House Rules Committee Chairman Gerald Solomon, R-N.Y.

House would follow the spirit of a resolution adopted Friday requiring release of most of the tapes. For now, public opinion is running against Republicans plans to release the video.
